RESPECT

PARENT LETTER

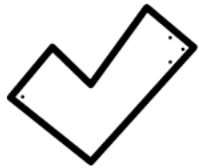

Hello Parents,

We are learning all about Respect. We defined being respectful as: Showing consideration, understanding, and regard for people, places, and things.

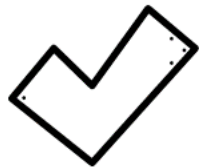

Here are some ways you can teach
Respect to your child at home:

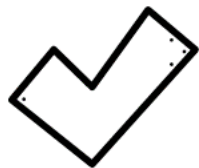

Have them be responsible for keeping their room and backpack tidy.

Reinforce good manners during mealtimes and when out in public.

Hold the door for someone at the store.

Encourage polite vocabulary (thank you, you're welcome, excuse me).

Show disapproval when they talk or act disrespectful to others. When they act respectfully, always show your approval of their actions. Emphasize that character is built upon the actions a person takes.

RESPECT

WRITING PROMPTS

1. What makes you a respectful or disrespectful person?
2. How does it feel when someone shows disrespect?
3. How can you show respect to parents/teachers/other students?
4. What are some occupations that show a lot of respect towards people? How do they show respect to others?
5. Think of a news report that you saw someone being disrespectful. What did they do to make you think of them this way?
6. Is it ever difficult to act respectful? Give examples.
7. Are there times when it is acceptable to be disrespectful? Explain. (Hint: Safety concerns, Strangers asking you to do things)
8. Describe something you did that was disrespectful. How did it make you feel? What did you learn from that?

Week 1: We are learning all about Respect. We defined being respect as showing consideration, understanding, and regard for people, places, and things. Some ways you can be respectful at school are sharing, thinking before you speak, following the rules, listening to your teacher, and taking care of classroom items.

Week 2: We are continuing to learn all about Respect. Remember being respectful means treating others the way you want to be treated. Some ways that you can be respectful at home are sharing with a sibling, doing your chores, taking care of your belongings, using good manners at the dinner table, and keeping your room clean.

Week 3: We are continuing to learn all about Respect. Remember being respectful means showing consideration and regard for others. Some ways that you can be respectful in your community is helping an elderly neighbor, being polite when eating at a restaurant, being quiet at a movie theater, and putting trash in the trash can.

Week 4: As we continue to learn about Respect, let's reflect on this quote, "Respect is a mirror, the more you show it to other people, the more they will reflect it back." This means that you need to show others respect, if you want to be treated with respect. What is one way you will be respectful today?

Week 5: Respect is an essential trait to have for many careers. Pilots for example show a lot of respect. Pilots fly and navigate airplanes and other types of aircraft. Airplanes operate by a cockpit crew which are the captain and co-pilot. They work together to steer the plane, monitor the instruments, perform safety inspections, and communicate with air traffic controllers. Their most important role is to ensure the safety of the passengers on the plane. Pilots should be able to multitask, work as a team, problem-solve, have a professional demeanor and be respectful to crew and passengers. Think of a career you may be interested in and how you can show respect within that career.

Week 6: Respect is shown by leaders throughout history and is an important feature of being a leader. One such leader is Temple Grandin, a Scientist and activist. She is an advocate for the humane treatment of livestock and has written over 60 scientific papers about animal behavior. She also is an autism spokesperson, documenting her own experience with autism. Through her work, Temple has provided insight into the minds of cattle. She designed a curved corral to reduce the stress and panic for the animals when herding them. She showed us the importance of respecting animals and credits her compassion for the animals to her autism. She says she can see the animals' reality from their viewpoint and feels a deep connection to them. She said, "We've got to give those animals a decent life, we owe the animals respect." Think about how you can be a leader in your classroom by showing respect.

CROSSWALK

Guillermo is walking to school with his two friends and sees the school crossing guard holding up the stop sign. His friends say that there are no cars coming, and they should just ignore the crossing guard and keep going. Guillermo tells them they need to follow the rules, listen to the crossing guard and stop if he says to. They all wait for the crossing guard to tell them to cross the street, and Guillermo says "thank you" to him.

CAREERS WITH

RESPECT

PILOT

Pilots fly and navigate airplanes and other types of aircraft. Airplanes operate by a cockpit crew which are the captain and co-pilot. They work together to steer the plane, monitor the instruments, perform safety inspections, and communicate with air traffic controllers. Their most important role is to ensure the safety of the passengers on the plane. Pilots should be able to multitask, work as a team, problem-solve, have a professional demeanor and be respectful to crew and passengers.

LEADERS WITH RESPECT TEMPLE GRANDIN

Mary Temple Grandin is an American Scientist and activist. She is an advocate for the humane treatment of livestock and has written over 60 scientific papers about animal behavior. She also is an autism spokesperson, documenting her own experience with autism. Through her work, Temple Grandin has provided insight into the minds of cattle. She designed a curved corral to reduce the stress and panic for the animals when herding them. She showed us the importance of respecting animals and credits her compassion for the animals to her autism. She says she can see the animals' reality from their viewpoint and feels a deep connection to animals. She said, "We've got to give those animals a decent life, we owe the animals respect."
