- This presentation teaches students about the meaning of Thanksgiving, reasons we might feel grateful, and how to show gratitude for others.
- Any time there are text boxes that say "Type here," students can type their responses directly in the text boxes.
- For the grateful turkey activity, students can type on each feather one person or thing that they are grateful for.
- The Gobble Grams are kindness notes that students can send to each other to express gratitude. Students can type in their name, their friend's name, and a gratitude message to them. Then, they can save them and email them to their friends, or print them and give them a hard copy!
- ****Please be sure that you are using this activity in "Edit Mode," (the way it looks when you first open the document with the little preview of each slide on the left), NOT in full-screen presentation mode.
- Lots of printables are included in the other files – feel free to use those after the presentation if you'd like!
